

The Aid to Scholarly Publications Program (ASPP) is part of the Canadian Federation for the Humanities and Social Sciences, and has supported the work of Canadian researchers for over sixty years. In its recent competition, four CSSE members were granted ASPP subventions for their books. Congratulations go out to:

Sheila L. Cavanagh for "Sexing the Teacher: School Sex Scandals and Queer Pedagogies"

Reva Joshee and Lauri Johnson for "Multicultural Education Policies in Canada and the United States"

Wolfgang Lehmann for "Choosing to Labour? School-Work Transitions and Social Class"
